with Dot the Spot

What: Dot is a giant inflatable melanoma who is portable, tactile and lightweight. The colouring and patterns seen on Dot use dermoscopic images of real skin cancers.

Why: Dot is designed to be touched and talked about. She encourages people to think and talk about melanoma and skin cancer in a new and different way.

Where: Dot can attend meetings, conferences and events, both indoors and outdoors, to start important conversations to help us make Australia skin serious.

Weight:
Dot weighs 17kgs when packed away in her suitcase with all her gear.

Dimensions:
Fully inflated, Dot is:
3m long x
2.5m wide x
1.5m high.

For Dot to look good, she needs safe access to a power source and:
- If staged vertically, floorspace of 3m x 2m or
- If sitting flat on the ground, floorspace of 3.5m x 3m.

Get in touch if you would like to adopt Dot for your event.
